Part II　Reading Comprehension

Passage 1

Chang’an Style Band is a traditional Chinese folk music band and it is popular in Douyin. This band is made up of two big music groups from Shaanxi and most of the members are young people. They play many traditional Chinese musical instruments such as the pipa, erhu, and guzheng. They play so well that many people online like them. Even some people who weren’t interested in folk music before find that folk music can be this cool.

Blue man is the leader of the band. It’s he who decided to use livestreaming (网络直播) to make more people learn about folk music. However, it is a difficult job to make this happen. From finding performers and picking songs to making the livestream room look good and preparing the equipment, everything is hard. They also have to keep finding new songs to play, so the listeners won't get bored. Once, they even spent a month just making the sound right for each instrument.

But all the hard work has been worth it. Now, a lot of people love the band. And Song has a new idea. He wants to find new talented band members over the Internet and create an online Chinese traditional folk music orchestra (乐团). This way, more people can learn about this type of music. He also thinks it's important to teach young people about folk music now, and not wait until it's too late.

Passage 2

94-year-old Chinese nurse Zhang Jinyuan won the 2023 International Achievement Award earlier this year. And on July 19th, her award ceremony was held in Beijing.

The award is one of the most prestigious awards in the global nursing and health fields. It is offered every two years to a nurse who has made great contributions (贡献) and had an important influence. Zhang is the first Chinese nurse to receive the award. She said she felt very proud because she thought the award was not to her but to Chinese.

Graduating from a nursing college in Nanchang, Jiangxi, Zhang started practicing nursing at a local hospital in 1951. She worked for over forty years as a nurse, throwing herself into developing new nursing care tools.

Zhang retired (退休) in 1992, but she didn't stop thinking of those in need of care. During a visit to a patient's home, Zhang found the patient often forgot to record his blood pressure. "Many families don't have simple medical care knowledge, and it is a weakness that must be solved," she said.

Then she came up with an idea of bringing nursing care from hospitals to families. Sixteen retired nurses joined her and then a volunteer nursing service center in Jiangxi was born in 2000. To improve her services, Zhang also set up a home-centered elderly care volunteer group in 2009.

Till now, nearly 20,000 volunteers have provided free care services for over 700,000 people in 350 neighborhoods under Zhang's guidance. "I feel like I'm just getting started and I'll keep on helping more people," she said.

21．Who won the 2023 International Achievement Award this year?

_____ did.

22．How often is the award offered?

It is offered _____.

23．When did Zhang retire?

She retired _____.

24．What did Zhang set up in 2009?

She set up a _____ volunteer group in 2009.

25．Why did Zhang feel proud after she won the award?

That's because she thought the award was not to her but to _____.

Passage 3

If you wake up with a cough and a sore throat, you can go to the doctor. But when the soil is sick, it is not able to tell anyone! This is the concept that made the EPA take action. They formed a group of professional soil doctors to monitor the health of dirt.

Healthy soil is essential because it allows plants and animals to grow well. Healthy soil also prevent poisonous chemicals, holds water and gives some wastes time to be destroyed. But its ability to do these things is not unlimited. That's when a soil doctor is needed.

As the world's economies and certain industries grow, so does soil pollution. Sources of this pollution include waste from factories and farms and household garbage as well as agricultural waste. Water often carries poisonous chemical from this waste into the fields where they work their way into the soil. These chemicals can cause plants to produce food that is harmful or prevents crops from growing at all.

People need to be on the lookout for soil pollution to protect themselves and others. In 1984 in Taoyuan County, a chemical company let out wastewater into a rice field. In order to keep people from eating the poisonous rice, all of the crops had to be destroyed.

In situations where soil is polluted, the first step soil doctors take is to stop the farming of the land. The EPA then treats the soil so that it can be used again. Some types of treatment take place onsite in the field and some are offsite. Eventually, crops can be planted again in the soil, but it could be years before that happens.

Soil doctors can treat "sick" soil, but they prefer to prevent soil pollution. They try to manage the risk of pollution by testing dirt regularly. Soil doctors play an important role in preventing poisonous chemicals from harming plants, animals and people. But ordinary people can do their part by _____.

26. What action did the EPA take to help soil?

27. When does soil need to see a doctor?

_____

28. What usually causes the soil pollution?

_____

29. Without the help of soil doctors, what may happen?

_____

30. What responsibility should ordinary people take for keeping soil healthy? Complete the sentence in the last paragraph.

Passage 4

July 19 in 2022 was a special day. On that day, Japanese figure skater (花滑运动员) Yuzuru Hanyu announced (宣告) his retirement (退役). However, this doesn't mean he has given up on the sport. Instead of competing in events, he has started giving performances. On Feb. 26, 2023, the "ice prince" returned with his biggest professional ice show yet—Gift.

More than 35,000 visitors poured into the Tokyo Dome, one of Japan's biggest event halls, to watch Hanyu's two-and-a-half hour solo (单独的) show. It's also the first time the hall held a solo ice-skating show. Cheers filled the hall as Hanyu performed all 12 performances of Gift by himself.

He opened the show with The Firebird. Wearing wings of fire, he danced across the ice beautifully. Then along with the images (图像) of the sun, the moon, grass and other scenes from nature, Hanyu began to tell the story of Gift: loneliness and pain.

"I created Gift in the hope that it would be a gift to everyone's heart. What's more, it would provide a place for the people who feel lonely," Hanyu said.

"There are things that I could have done better. But Gift was a one-time-only event, and I'm very proud of the fact that I was able to give a once-in-a-lifetime performance. It is truly unique to figure skating. I would be happy if even a small piece of my performance will remain in your memory," he added.

31．When did Yuzuru Hanyu retire?

_____

32．Hong long did Yuzuru Hanyu's solo show last?

_____

33．Did Yuzuru Hanyu use different scenes to perform Gift?

_____

34．What did Yuzuru Hanyu want to tell us through the story of Gift?

_____

35．Why did Yuzuru Hanyu create Gift?

Passage 5

Camping is an experience that provides children with plenty of opportunities (机会) to develop various skills and characteristics.

Firstly, camps offer an environment where children can make true friends. Away from the expectations and stress of school, children can relax and make friends with their partners without difficulty. The activities and fun events provide a perfect opportunity for everyone to come together and form a friendship.

Secondly, camps help children learn important social skills. Being part of a community teaches children the importance of teamwork and open communication. Living in a small room with others allows children to solve problems on their own and build valuable social skills.

Thirdly, camps encourage children to become more independent. Camping is an excellent opportunity for kids to decide for themselves in a safe and caring environment. They learn to manage their daily choices and develop a sense of self-reliance (自立), which is important for their own growth.

Fourthly, camps help children experience success and become more confident. Camps offer non-competitive activities that allow children to explore their interests. Every day presents a new opportunity to achieve and succeed, which helps build children's self-confidence.

Finally, camps provide opportunities for children to be physically active. With most children spending plenty of time indoors sitting, camps offer the opportunity to take part in outdoor activities like running, swimming and climbing. Such activities help young bodies stay healthy and active.

In conclusion, sending your kids to camp is an excellent way to help them learn and grow.
