Part II　Reading Comprehension

Passage 1

Iceland (冰岛) is a northern European country with amazing natural beauty and oceans around. There are lots of volcanoes (火山). It has a short summer which lasts from June to August. The long winter starts from September and ends next May.

Summer in Iceland is a golden season for tourists. Every year, people from all over the world come here to see the beautiful sights and enjoy the exciting whale-seeing (观鲸).

In winter, when people in Iceland complete their daily work, they will have a lot of special activities to spend the long dark night. Skating, riding snow motorbikes and having parties can really make an exciting night. After all the fun, a hot bath must be the first thing they want to do. There are also story telling activities for children, which can teach them to be strong and kind. The most popular stories are about Christmas in Iceland.

Because of a long cold winter, Iceland has a short growing season. Food problem was always a headache for Iceland in the past. It had to buy most of its food from other countries. Later, when farmers learned to use lights and underground heat to grow crops (庄稼) all year round in the greenhouse, things changed a lot.

Living in such a nice environment, most people in Iceland live a happy life. According to a survey about happiness made each year in Europe, Iceland is always among the top 3.

Passage 2

Traveling to another country is exciting and fun. But if you don't learn about local customs, your trip may get into trouble. Here are some cultural taboos (禁忌) in several countries.

Mexico

In Mexico, bringing an expensive gift to someone's home is a no-no. For local people, some simple things like flowers are good gifts. But you shouldn't take along red flowers, because in Mexican culture, they are symbols of death and can be connected with witchcraft (巫术) .

The US

Americans have a custom of tipping (给小费). You should tip nearly anyone with a service job, such as waiters, taxi drivers, hotel doormen, etc.

Pay attention when you talk with Americans. Questions like "How old are you?" may be common between friends. But as tourists in the US, it is not polite to ask people's age.

Britain

From the supermarket to the underground station, queuing (排队) is very common in Britain. Usually, it takes a British person six months of his or her life in queues. If you jump the queue there, you may make them angry.

Japan

You should never wear shoes indoors in Japan. When visiting someone's home, it is rude to enter with shoes on. Shoes should be taken off at the door and replaced with indoor slippers. This is also the same when you try clothes on in a clothes shop. You should take off your shoes before going into the fitting room. There are indoor shoes prepared for customers inside.

21. What does the underlined word "they" in Paragraph 2 refer to?

It refers to "_____".

22. Who should be tipped in the US?

_____ should be tipped in the US.

It is mainly about _____.

Passage 3

Recently, a shocking piece of news went popular on China's media. Wu Yishu, a 16-year-old student from Shanghai, won a Chinese poetry (诗) competition in the second season of the Chinese Poetry Conference on Feb 7th, 2017. She beat other competitors because of her learning about Chinese culture and works. "I get feelings from ancient poetry that modern people cannot give me. I pay little attention to the competition result, but I love poetry, and it is enough as long as I enjoy the happiness brought by the poetry," Wu said.

In the final, Wu performed strongly in many parts, such as competitors recalling poems by looking at sand paintings and reciting (背诵) poems about the Chinese character "Jiu" as many as possible.

As early as Feb 1st, when Wu recited an ancient Chinese poem about the months of the year, someone said that Wu must have remembered at least more than 2,000 Chinese poetry. Wu's strong performance in the Chinese ancient rhythm works earned (赢得) her many fans and inspired (鼓舞) others to learn ancient works. The 1.8-meter-tall Wu said that she kept only one ancient poetry book on the bookshelf at her dormitory room instead of other books such as math, physics and chemistry books that her classmates have kept on their bookshelves.

She is known among her classmates and teachers as she loves reading poetry and wearing ancient Chinese clothes.

Wu's excellent performance pushed more and more people to learn Chinese poetry.

26．How do people know Wu Yishu?

27．Did Wu care much about the competition result?

28．From which side can we see that Wu loves poetry?

29．Why is Wu famous among her classmates and teachers?

30．What is Wu's influence in China?

Passage 4

Face-to-face with a mother who doesn't immediately praise every gift, my children have learned to be very careful in choosing gifts. But a couple of weeks ago, they came together to give me a gift that really blew me away.

For years now, I've been wanting to sell our house where my children grew up. But there are the funny little love hearts they drew just near their beds. The attic (阁楼) is full of the old clothes they couldn't wear. The high shelves still have lots of novels for children, like The Night Before Christmas and The Muddle-Headed Wombat.

But those are not the reasons for being sad about leaving this house. There is much more to tie me to the home where I brought up our kids. In the front room, there is a wall. On that wall are hundreds of pencil marks, names and dates. They recorded the way the children grew.

Of all the objects, all the memories, it's this one place in our home that makes it hard for me to leave. Over dinner, over the years, I've talked about how much I would hate leaving that wall, even though the last marks were made ten years ago when my kids stopped growing. So one day, while I was at work, my children decided to do something about the wall. Here was a chance to remove the last traces (痕迹) of their babyhood, but they didn't do that. Instead, they hired Jack, a professional photographer, to come to our house to take photos of the pencil marks, names and dates and then changed them into one photo.

At last, the gift made its way to me, one meaningful photo. Representing love and growth, it's a gift that I will cherish forever.

31．When did the mother get the surprising gift?

32．What is the attic filled with?

33．Why are the marks on the wall so important to the mother?

34．How did Jack make the traces on the wall into a gift?

35．Do you like this kind of gift? Why or why not?

Passage 5

It is said that the eyes are the windows of our soul. Beautiful and bright eyes not only show a good health but also make you look very attractive (有魅力的). To have healthy eyes, you have to look after them properly.

Pay more attention to your diet. First, eat food that is good for your eyes. They are fresh fruits and vegetables as well as fish, eggs, and milk. Besides, a regular amount of vitamins A and B2 should also be taken.

A regular and good sleep is necessary. It can help to relax your eyes. Usually, you must sleep for at least eight hours every day. Loss of sleep can give you dark circles under the eyes.

You must exercise your eyes every day. Blink (眨眼) your eyes at regular periods, which makes the eyeballs watery, and gives them a good wash.

We use our eyes in many wrong ways. For example, if a small thing goes into our eye, we start to rub (揉) it, which is wrong. Rubbing can do harm to our eyes. Don't read or write in too bright sunlight. Reading, writing, watching television or working on the computer for too long without a rest can also cause eye tiredness.

Remember to always look after God's most beautiful gift to you. Your life will be very colourless without your eyes.
