Passage 1

A Chinese dance drama, Li Bai has become popular on social media platforms abroad recently. Millions of people outside of China have watched it. Many people were amazed at it and started to appreciate the beauty traditional Chinese's culture.

This is not the first time that a symphony orchestra (管弦交响乐队) and traditional Chinese music have been put together. Two other great dance dramas, Confucius (《孔子》) and Princess Zhaojun, were also arranged this way. The musicians believe that this is the best way to introduce Chinese music and culture to the world.

Li Bai has gotten many likes from people around the world. Someone described it as "beautiful and interesting", while another said, "It was amazing!"

The dance drama shows a few important moments of Li Bai's life. It helps people understand him better as a persistent (坚持不懈的) and brave person. People may also know that Li Bai is a man with talent. Although the dance drama doesn't tell a 100% true story, it does introduce a true Li Bai to the world.

More importantly, Li Bai does not only show the beauty of Chinese music and culture, it also tells the world that we are not that different. No matter which part of the world we come from, we are all human beings and share the same feelings when we see beautiful things. As Hu Yang, the actor playing Li Bai, said, "Each person has their own Li Bai."

Passage 2

Our world is in danger. We must do something to protect the environment. But, what are the main problems we face?

The greenhouse effect

The atmosphere (大气) around the Earth is necessary for all living things. It is like the glass of a greenhouse, letting sunlight in and keeping heat from getting out. Without it, the Earth would be the same as the Moon—cold and lifeless.

When we burn fuels such as petrol and coal, we produce a gas called carbon dioxide

(CO_2). Too much of this gas pollutes the atmosphere and causes it to keep in too much heat. As a result of the greenhouse effect, the Earth's temperature is increasing. This causes sea level to rise, and in the future may cause cities to disappear.

Cutting down forests

Every year, we destroy nature by cutting down huge areas of forests. This makes the greenhouse effect worse because trees take in CO_2 and produce oxygen. Cutting down trees also destroys the homes of the animals that live in our forests, and causes the surface of the soil to be easily destroyed by rain. This can result in floods and even more damage to the environment.

Bad habits

Many of our habits cause pollution. People often use things once and then throw them away, or leave them on the ground as litter. This creates mountains of rubbish and pollutes our land and seas.

In order to protect the environment, we need to take proper action. We should be different from many consumers and become "green consumers". This means that we should only buy and use products friendly to the environment. We should also recycle as many things as we can. We can reuse things for the same purpose as before, or we can use them for new purposes. If we just learn to live in new and different ways, we can make a difference.

21. What problems does the article discuss?

22. What does greenhouse effect cause?

23. Why does cutting down trees result in floods?

24. A consumer is someone who buys and uses things. Can you guess what a "green consumer" is?

25. What can we do to protect the environment as teenagers?

Passage 3

In China, writing brushes, ink sticks, paper and inkstones are called the Four Treasures of Study. Among the high-quality treasures, the writing brush produced in Huzhou, the ink stick produced in Huizhou, the Xuan paper made in Xuancheng and the inkstone made in Duanxi are the best-known.

Writing brushes can be used to draw pictures on painted pottery (陶器). They are mainly made of the hair of animals. Those made of wool are called yanghao and those made of the weasel's (鼬的) tail hair are called langhao. Their artistic effects in writing and painting cannot be copied by any other pens.

The ink stick is the pigment (颜料) used in writing and painting. The ink stick produced in Huizhou is of high quality. A story goes like this: Two famous skilled men Xi Chao and his son produced a kind of high-quality ink stick. As a result, Emperor Li Yu in the Southern Tang Dynasty agreed to give them the family name "Li". From then on, the fame of the Li Ink Stick was widespread. In the Song Dynasty, its producing area was changed into Huizhou, and it was then called the Hui Ink Stick.

Paper is among the four great inventions in ancient China. The famous Xuan paper appeared in the Sui and Tang Dynasties. In Xuanzhou, Anhui Province where Xuan paper is produced, it's said that Cai Lun's pupil Kong Dan took the job of producing paper but failed to make perfect white paper. Later he happened to see the ebony (黑檀木) in the rivers. It was wet with the water and turned white. Then he used the bark (树皮) to produce the world-famous Xuan paper.

The inkstone was already very popular in the Han Dynasty. The Ming and Qing Dynasties saw the appearance of the Four Famous Inkstones—Duan Inkstone, She Inkstone, Tao Inkstone and Chengni Inkstone. They can be used not only in writing and painting but also for admiration.

Passage 5

There are many methods you can use to improve your learning ability. Here are some of them.

Take notes by hand. Research shows it can help you learn more effectively(有效地). Write down important information in your own words. Write in phrases (短语) instead of complete sentences so you can still pay attention and won't waste time on every little word.

Repeat what you want to remember out loud. It can help information stick in your mind. As you review or study information, use your own speech to add an active element to a word or phrase. Say something you really want to remember out loud. It can help it become clearer in your long-term memory.

Test yourself as often as you can. It's a great way to find out what you need to learn. Look through the information you're trying to learn and ask yourself questions about the material. If you answer correctly, great! If not, find the right answer and try to remember it.

Practice a task in different ways. Changing the way that you practice can help you improve. If you're trying to learn a task or skill, practice is one of the most useful ways to get better. But don't just practice in the same way over and over. Instead, try practicing in a different way each time, which can help make you learn more quickly.
