questions (No.11 to No.15) that follow. The answers (in no more than 3 words) should be written after the corresponding numbers on the Answer Sheet.

It's never easy to admit you are in the wrong. Being human, we all need to know the art of apologizing. Look back with honesty and think how often you've judged roughly, said unkind things and pushed yourself ahead at the expense of a friend. Then count the occasions when you indicated clearly and truly that you were sorry. A bit frightening, isn't it? It's frightening because some deep wisdom in us knows that whenever a small wrong has been committed, some mysterious moral feeling is disturbed; and it stays out of balance until fault is acknowledged and regret expressed.

I remember a doctor friend, the late Clarence Libel, telling me about a man who came to him with a variety of signs: headaches, insomnia(失眠症) and stomach trouble. No physical cause could be found. Finally Dr. Libel said to the man, "Unless you tell me what's worrying you, I can't help you."

After some hesitation, the man admitted that as the executor of his father's will, he had been cheating his brother, who lived abroad, of his inheritance(遗产). Then and there the wise old doctor made the man write to his brother asking for forgiveness. He then went with him to the mailbox in the corridor. As the letter disappeared, the man burst into tears, "Thank you. I think I'm cured." And he was.

A heartfelt(真诚的) apology can not only heal a damaged relationship but also make it strong. If you can think of someone who deserves an apology from you, do something about it right now.

How many men do housework? Recently a European commission tried to find out people's ideas and reactions to the women's movement. As part of their survey, they asked many men and women the question, "Who does the housework?" The men answered very differently from the women!

The housework they asked people about was: preparing meals, washing dishes, cleaning the house and babysitting. 48% of British husbands said they did these things. 37% of Danish (丹麦的) men helped in the house. But only 15% of Italian men said they did the housework; many of them said they never helped at all!

But there was an interesting point of view from the wives. According to British wives, only 38% of their husbands helped in the house. And Italian wives said that their husbands hardly ever helped. The Italian and British men did not tell the truth! The commission found that Danish men were the most truthful husbands. Their answers were the same as their wives' answers.

Do the men you know help in the house? Do you think the survey gives a true picture in your experience? Write and tell us what you think.
