Fitness Magazine recently ran an article titled "Five Reasons to Thank Your Workout Partner." One reason was: "You'll actually show up if you know someone is waiting for you at the gym, " while another read: "___21___" With a workout partner, you will increase your training effort as there is a subtle (微妙) competition. So, how do you find a workout partner?

First of all, decide what you want from that person. ___22___ Or do you just want to be physically fit, able to move with strength and flexibility? Think about the exercises you would like to do with your workout partner.

You might think about posting what you are looking for on social media, but it probably won't result in a useful response. ___23___ If you plan on working out in a gym, that person must belong to the same gym.

My partner posted her request on the notice board of a local park. Her notice included what kind of training she wanted to do, how many days a week and how many hours she wanted to spend on each session, and her age. It also listed her favorite sports and activities, and provided her phone number. ___24___

You and your partner will probably have different skills. ___25___ Over time, both of you will benefit — your partner will be able to lift more weights and you will become more physically fit. The core (核心) of your relationship is that you will always be there to help each other.

A. Your first meeting may be a little awkward.
B. A workout partner usually needs to live close by.
C. You'll work harder if you train with someone else.
D. Do you want to be a better athlete in your favorite sport?
E. How can you write a good "seeking training partner" notice?
F. Just accept your differences and learn to work with each other.
G. Any notice for a training partner should include such information.

Section B

Directions: There are 3 passages in this section. After each passage there are 5 questions. Please read the passage and write down the answer to each question with proper words.

Passage 1

The practice of exchanging foreign currency can vary by country. In one country, you may have to change your money at the airport, and in other countries you may need to buy your foreign currency in advance. Here are some places you can exchange foreign currency for U.S. currency.

Your Bank

In many cases you can purchase U.S. currency for your trip from a bank. Banks tend to have higher exchange rates than some currency exchange businesses. Before you purchase currency from a bank, check the currency change rates for that day so you can compare the rate the bank is giving and determine if it's a good offer. There is a fee involved in withdrawing foreign currency from your bank.

The Airport

Currency exchange businesses can be found at most international airports, so you can purchase U.S. currency either before you board your flight or at the U.S. airport on arrival. Note that U.S. airports typically have fewer currency exchange counters than travelers are accustomed to seeing in other parts of the world. If the airport you are flying into is not in a major U.S. city, consider using the exchange service in your departure airport to be on the safe side. If you are in an airport where several exchange companies operate, be sure to shop around for the best rate and lowest exchange fee.

26. According to the passage, the method of _____ differs from one country to another.

27. You are advised to check and compare the exchange rates before _____.

28. When do you have to pay extra money to your bank?

_____.

29. Where should you use the exchange service if you are not flying to a major city in America?

_____.

30. How can you get the best deal in an airport with more than one exchange company?

_____.

Passage 2

Alternative accommodation (住处)

We'll find somewhere for you and your pets to live if your home has been damaged by an insured event and you can't live there. With our buildings insurance we'll pay up to $30,000 for alternative accommodation, and up to $20,000 with contents insurance.

31. When something unexpected happens to your home, you can buy _____.

32. You don't need to pay for the repairs _____.

33. If you lose your keys to the external doors, what will the insurance company do?

_____.

34. In a festival, your valuables limit will be _____.

35. What is the company likely to do if your home is damaged by an insured event?

Passage 3

Marketing by emailing is on the increase. Compared to other media, email messages are extremely cheap to send. With TV, you are spending on ad agencies and cable channels. With print ads, you are contributing to the survival of newspapers and magazines. Direct mail costs more than $600 per thousand pieces. With email, there are almost no costs at all. Its low cost makes email marketing become the most cost-effective (划算的) advertising method available today.

With TV, you have no idea who is watching your ads. Even with direct mail, you cannot be sure that your mail has been delivered or that anyone reads it when it gets there. With email you know within 24 hours exactly which messages have been opened, by whom, what links the openers clicked on (点击), and what part of your message was working.

Because of electronic links, those who open your emails can do their own research: they can explore and see any of the thousands of products that you sell. They can see the colors and sizes. They can, and they do, read ratings and reviews. They can put products in their shopping carts and buy them.

36. With _____, you are helping to keep newspapers and magazines alive.

37. Why has email marketing become the cheapest way of advertising?

Because of its _____.

38. According to the passage, if you place an ad on TV, you don't know _____.

39. With _____, it is difficult to ensure who reads your mail.

40. Why can those who open your emails do their own research?
