Section A

Directions: There are 4 passages in this section. After each passage there are 5 questions. Please read the passage and write down the answer to each question with proper words.

Passage 1

Sea horses are unusual animals. The female sea horses lay the eggs, but unlike other creatures, it's the males that give birth to the young.

Male sea horses have a brood pouch (育儿袋). During the breeding season, the sea horse's pouch swells to receive eggs. A female sea horse lays up to 200 eggs at a time in the pouch. Then she swims off, leaving her male partner to care for the developing eggs and give birth to young sea horses. The female will return every day to check on her mate and the eggs, but she doesn't stay long, nor does she take part in the birth.

It takes about six weeks for the eggs in the male's pouch to develop. During this time the male avoids open water and hides in sea grass. His big pouch makes it difficult for him to swim, so the male often uses his tail to grasp a piece of sea grass. Firmly gripping the grass, he will stay perfectly still for hours or even days. The male sea horse will change his color to blend with his surroundings. The eggs hatch inside the male's pouch. When the babies begin moving around, the male sea horse knows it's time for them to be born. He grabs a sea grass stem with his tail and begins rocking, bending his body back and forth. This causes the opening to enlarge until it is wide enough for the first baby sea horse to shoot out. Sometimes he has to press his pouch against a rock or some stiff seaweed to force the young out.

Usually it takes two days for the father sea horse to give birth to all his young. He is very tired when it's over.

Passage 2

Subways are underground trains, which usually operate 24 hours a day. They are found in larger cities and usually run between suburbs and downtown areas. Maps and schedules are available from the ticket office. If you take the subway often, you can save money by purchasing a monthly pass (月票).

City-operated buses run on various routes (线路) and are designed to be at certain places at certain times. Maps and schedules may be posted at certain stops, or they may be available at local banks, libraries, student unions, or from bus drivers. Buses run mainly during the day. Fare is paid by exact change in coins, or by monthly passes.

Passage 3

A share house is money-saving. When you share a house, your rent bills and possible food cost will be much lower. If the house is already established, you don't have to worry about buying things like a fridge and TV.

Choosing good housemates (合租人)

Moving in with friends can be fun but it can result in conflict (冲突) and a loss of friendship. Think carefully about the type of person suited to your character.

Ask advice from friends who have lived in share houses, or consult a youth worker or a relative.

Setting some guidelines

Every share house is different, but there are some guidelines (准则) that can help you avoid conflict.

* Issue or ask for a receipt (收据) when you pay or collect the rent.
* Where possible, deal with problems through face-to-face communication.

Our Living in a Share House web page has some advice and ideas to help make sharing with your housemates a great experience.

26. According to the first paragraph, why can you save your money when you share a house?

27. What are the potential disadvantages of moving in with friends?

Passage 4

Do you have bright ideas? Ideas for inventions that change society or, at least, make life easier for somebody. Perhaps we all do sometimes, but we don't often make the idea a reality. Recently, in Britain, there was a competition called British Designers for Tomorrow. The competition encouraged young people to carry out their bright ideas. There were two groups in the contest: Group One was for school children under 16; Group Two was for school children over 16. And there were eleven prize winners altogether.

Neil Gunt, one of the prize winners, was called Sunshine Superman by one newspaper writing about his design. Most sunshine recorders only record direct sunlight. Neil's is more accurate and this is very important for research into ways of using solar power. With his prize of $100, Neil plans to carry on inventing.

You can do much with animation. Look at Simon West's idea from animated road signs. He uses pictures which appear to move as you go nearer to or farther away from them. This isn't a new idea. But it is new to use these pictures on road signs. "We found that people were more likely to see moving signs," said Simon.

The ideas in the competition were so inventive that we are surprised that British industry doesn't ask more schoolchildren for suggestions. Perhaps this will be the start of Pupil Power!

31. What competition was carried out recently in Britain?

_____.

32. The aim of the competition was to _____.

33. How many winners there were altogether in the competition?

_____.

Part IV Translation (20%)

Section A English into Chinese

Directions: *Translate the following sentences from English into Chinese. Please write your translation on the Answer Sheet.

How much living space does a person need? (51) What happens when his space requirements are not adequately met?

Sociologists and psychologists are conducting experiments on rats to try to determine the effect of overcrowded conditions on man. (52) Recent studies have shown that the behavior of rats is greatly affected by space. If rats have enough living space, they eat well, sleep well. (53) However, if their living conditions become too crowded, their behavior patterns and even their health obviously change.

They cannot sleep or eat well, and signs of fear and tension become obvious. (54) The more crowded they are, the more they tend to bite each other and even kill each other. Thus for rats, population and violence are directly related.

(55) Is this a natural law for human society as well? Is adequate space not only desirable, but also essential for human survival?
